The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: none of the prior art of record teaches a system for removing moisture from a fuel cell in a vehicle comprising a temperature-measuring device, a source of moisture-removing medium, a controller which receives temperature data from the device and wherein the controller initiates a medium-flowing event in which the medium is flowed through the fuel cell when the ambient temperature drops below a predetermined temperature and wherein the controller remembers a medium-flowing event during a given engine shut off period so that if the vehicle warms up and drops below a predetermined temperature, a subsequent medium-flowing event is not initiated until the vehicle goes through another engine turn on and shut down cycle. None of the prior art discloses this last step in a fuel cell system as presently claimed.
